	A CRIME ON THE BAYOU tells the story of Gary Duncan, a Black teenager arrested and convicted for touching a white boy's arm in Plaquemines Parish, Louisiana in 1966. A young Jewish attorney Richard Sobol leaves his prestigious D.C. firm to volunteer in New Orleans and challenge his unfair arrest. Their fight goes all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, and Duncan and Sobol's lifelong friendship is forged. Mr. Duncan is a fisherman living and working in Louisiana. He and his seven brothers and sisters make a living on the Mississippi River, trawling for shrimps. Before that, enslaved ancestors worked the cane fields of French, Spanish, and English plantations. The film is executively produced by John Legend, and directed by award-winning filmmaker Nancy Buirski (The Loving Story, The Rape of Recy Taylor). The Q&A will be facilitated by: Gary Duncan, the film's main subject Lolis Elie, journalist, and writer, the son of civil rights pioneer Register here: https://zoom.us/meeting/register/tZMsdeqtqToin6juSAFannfX1670Hjnm9A https://www.raceforward.org/research/reports/partnering-federal-agencies-advance-racial-equity?utm_term=Partnering%20with%20Federal%20Agencies%20to%20Advance%20Equity&utm_campaign=Race%20Forward%20participates%20in%20White%20House%20Convening%20on%20Equity&utm_content=email&utm_source=Act-On+Software&utm_medium=email
