Project Description

(Helpful) The George Reynolds Branch Library is home library to many patrons who reside in south Boulder. The facility reached 50 years in 2018. The public spaces and collection layout have not been updated for several years. The current floor plan and furnishings do not meet the needs and expectations of its users. Public spaces need reconfiguration to align with the ways the community wants to use the library.

Project Phasing

Phase 1: Design - 1 month

Phase 2: Construction - FFE acquisitions - up to 5 months

Public Process

Plans will be presented for input to the Boulder Library Commission. Patron input may be sought through a survey.

DET/Impact Fees

Not used on this project.

Interdepartmental and Interagency Collaboration

The Library Public Services Manager will work in collaboration with FAM-designated project manager on planning and implementing this space reconfiguration project.
